Indegene

Technology

Robust growth with good progress on acquisitions; margins to remain muted

Indegene's robust revenue growth performance was similar to strong health tech results announced in Q3FY26 so far (i.e., Sagility). The impact of policy changes in life sciences segment of Indegene has been minimal. It is investing more in AI-led broader initiatives, especially in clinical trial processes. Company has merged ECS and omni-channel segments into one, aligning with its strategy to focus on key segments: ECS and EMS. Margin dipped sharply on higher depreciation and acquisition-related other expenses. We remain positive on Indegene given: 1) reduced policy overhang on health tech sector; 2) steady integration of acquired entities; and 3) industry-high revenue/employee. Upgrade to BUY (from Add) on 1) growth beat, 2) clear timeline of margin recovery led by cost synergy and 3) large deal traction, with focus on ECS and EMS.

The stock has corrected ~7% in the last 1-month. We value the company at an unchanged one-year forward target multiple of 26x, to reach a Dec'26E TP of INR 630.

Robust revenue growth in Q3

Indegene's 15.1% QoQ USD growth outperformed I-Sec estimate of 14.3%, largely led by positive Q3 seasonality (large US pharma clients follow calendar year cycle) and inorganic revenue from Biopharm and Warn. Vertical wise, EMS grew 4.4% and 'EMS + omnichannel' grew 19.28%. Ex-Biopharm QoQ INR growth was 5.9% (vs. 4.9% in Q3FY25). Growth outperformance was in line with the health tech results announced thus far (i.e. Sagility) in Q3FY26.

EBIT margin impacted by increased acquisition-led costs

Company reported EBIT margin of 12.7%, down 190bps QoQ. Margins were lower than estimated at 16.3%, despite the absence of wage hike impact from Q2FY26. The impact from acquisition has outweighed the tailwinds of absent wage hike and 100bps one-time cost from Q2. Offshoring at 82.3% was down 90bps QoQ; Q3 also has higher cost from large deal implementation. Other income included restructuring costs, legal costs.

Biopharm acquisition update

Biopharm integration is on track and the completion is expected by Mar'26 with increased cross-sell discussions and a good pipeline. Expected cost synergy stands at USD 1mn per annum in FY27. Biopharm revenue was USD 10.3mn in Q3 (9.7% of Q3FY26 revenue). We estimate Biopharm to contribute ~6% to FY26 growth.
